DOUGLAS COMMANDO

The Douglas Commando is a lightweight, low-profile shoulder pad at an economical price. Due to the fact that youth football players are not muscularly developed, "Flat Pads" are not recommended for them. Therefore, the Commando is constructed featuring a shock absorbing cantilever design, reducing the energy absorbed by the players body. The dual density construction will also assist in the energy absorption and dispersion aspects of the shoulder pad. The Commando features an extended front, adding more protection for the sternum.

DOUGLAS JP24

The JP24 is the "mini me" to our 24SW, which is our most popular shoulder pad at the professional and college levels. Designed to fit the youth/junior players perfectly, not like those other bulky pads on the market. The JP24 features the Douglas Air Management system, designed to lessen the blow to the body. With our new streamlined design, this lightweight pad is perfect for your layer. The JP24 features a lowered cantilever to sit closer to the body and absorb those big hits. Flat pads with belts are a "no no" in our book for players under 15, as these players have not developed enough physically to properly wear a flat pad. With our low-profile cantilever pad with elastic straps, your player will have maximum protection on the field.
